Michael Lennon, 2013-10-15 The glorious sweeping full scale biography of Norman Mailer the famous novelist journalist and public figure There s not a paragraph in this enormous book that doesn t contain a nugget of something you wish you had known The New York Times Norman Mailer was one of the giants of American letters and one of the most celebrated public figures of his time He was a novelist journalist biographer and filmmaker a provocateur and passionate observer of his times and a husband father and serial philanderer Perhaps nothing characterized Mailer more than his ambition He wanted not merely to be the greatest writer of his generation but a writer great enough to be compared to Dostoevsky and Tolstoy As Michael Lennon describes although he considered himself first and foremost a novelist his greatest literary contribution may have been in journalism where he used his novelistic gifts to explore the American psyche He would return to certain subjects obsessively John F Kennedy Marilyn Monroe sex technology and the intricate relationship of fame and identity Lennon captures Mailer in all his sharp complexities and shows us how he self consciously invented and re invented himself throughout his lifetime Michael Lennon knew Mailer for thirty five years and in this definitive biography he had the cooperation of Mailer s late widow Norris Church his ex wives and all of his children as well as his sister Barbara He also had access to Mailer s vast unpublished correspondence and papers and he interviewed dozens of people who knew Mailer In Norman Mailer A Double Life he brings Mailer thoroughly alive in this great wallop of a book and he captures the entirety of a man who embodied his era like no other The Washington Post

Who Says This? Welch D. Everman, 1988 Who or what gives the text its authority Everman offers three main sources of authority the author the discourse and the reader His first section examines the authority of the author by studying the works of contemporary American writers An essay on docufiction focuses on the paradox of using the techniques of fiction to discover reality The probability of writers revealing truths about themselves is exemplified by Raymond Federman s quasi autobiographical novels The second part discusses the authority of discourse challenging writers with the possibility that literary form not the author is the major force in creating works The final section explores the authority of the reader Italo Calvino's If on a winter's night a traveler makes the reader the main character of the novel and implicates him in its creation

The 1970s Neil A. Hamilton, 2009 Traces the history of the United States during the 1970s as well as presenting primary source material such as memoirs letters news articles and speeches

The Limits of Autobiography Leigh Gilmore, 2023-07-15 In The Limits of Autobiography Leigh Gilmore analyzes texts that depict trauma by combining elements of autobiography fiction biography history and theory in ways that challenge the constraints of autobiography Astute and compelling readings of works by Michel Foucault Louis Althusser Dorothy Allison Mikal Gilmore Jamaica Kincaid and Jeanette Winterson explore how each poses the questions How have I lived and How will I live in relation to the social and psychic forms within which trauma emerges First published in 2001 this new edition of one of the foundational texts in trauma studies includes a new preface by the author that assesses the gravitational pull between life writing and trauma in the twenty first century a tension that continues to produce innovative and artful means of confronting kinship violence and self representation

The Spectacle of Death Kristin Boudreau, 2006 In 1787 Benjamin Rush cautioned that public punishments were dangerous to the social and legal authority of the new nation For Rush irrepressible human sentiments all but guaranteed that public punishments would turn spectators against the institutions responsible for the punishments Although public executions of criminals ended early in the 19th century debate over the morality of capital punishment has continued to this day In this unique and fascinating glimpse into public reactions to prominent executions from colonial times to the 1990s Kristin Boudreau focuses on the central role of populist often ephemeral literary forms in shaping attitudes toward capital punishment Surveying popular poems ballads plays and novels she shows that at key times of social unrest in American history many Americans have felt excluded by the political and legal processes and have turned instead to inexpensive literary forms of expression in an attempt to change the course of history Among the significant capital cases that the author discusses are the Haymarket anarchist trial of 1886 the lynching of Leo Frank in 1914 the murder of Emmett Till in 1955 and its effects on the Civil Rights movement Norman Mailer's treatment of the Gary Gilmore case in the 1979 novel The Executioner's Song and the 1998 execution of Karla Faye Tucker a convicted murderer who became a born again Christian on death row In the concluding chapter Boudreau examines contemporary writers musicians actors and other artists who are using their artistic media to influence official policies of states that permit capital punishment By examining these neglected texts Boudreau brings to light a compelling story about ordinary Americans fighting an entrenched legal system at times of great national crisis

True Crime Ian Cummins, Martin King, Louise Wattis, 2025-10-21 True crime is a huge cultural industry media organisations use crime stories to push sales and clicks Yet behind this phenomenon lies the real life victims and a disconnect between the representation of violent crime and its reality This book is a go to guide for students and researchers in understanding the development of this phenomenon and its social and cultural impacts Through case studies including Lucy Letby the Yorkshire Ripper and Fred and Rosemary West the book considers true crime's ethical implications and its wider influence on crime and punishment

Evolving Standards of Decency Mary Welek Atwell, 2004 The Supreme Court has looked to evolving standards of decency in determining whether the death penalty violates the Eighth Amendment to the Constitution which prohibits cruel and unusual punishment Evolving Standards of Decency examines the ways in which popular culture portrays the death penalty By analyzing literature and film Atwell argues that capital punishment becomes much more complex when both offenders and victims are presented as fully developed individuals Numerous books and films from the last several decades expose flaws in the criminal justice system and provide audiences with stories that raise questions about race class and actual innocence in the administration of the ultimate punishment Although most people will not read legal briefs supporting or challenging the death penalty many will see films or read novels that raise issues about its fairness Themes and images gathered through popular culture may ultimately influence whether Americans continue to believe that capital punishment conforms to their evolving standards of decency and justice Those studying justice issues corrections or capital punishment will find this an accessible and provocative work that places the stories read in novels or seen in movies in the context of the legal system that has the power of life and death

The Death Penalty Allison Krumsiek, 2017-12-15 When a violent crime is committed some people believe the only fair punishment is for the perpetrator to be put to death Others feel that this practice is inhumane and that no one should be deliberately killed regardless of what he or she may have done This volume examines the history of the death penalty the ways it is administered and the arguments for and against it Chapter questions encourage discussion among readers and detailed charts and compelling sidebars enhance readers understanding of this hotly debated topic

The Encyclopedia of American Civil Liberties Paul Finkelman, 2006 Publisher Description

Style as Argument Chris Anderson, 1987 Taking the position that style has a value in its own right that language forms a major component of the story a nonfiction writer has to tell Anderson analyzes the work of America's foremost practitioners of New Journalism Tom Wolfe Truman Capote Norman Mailer and Joan Didion Anderson does for nonfiction what insightful critics have long been doing for fiction and poetry His approach is rhetorical and his message is that the rhetoric of Wolfe Capote Mailer and Didion is a direct response to the problem of trying to convey to a general audience the sublime inexplicable or private and intuitive experiences that conventional rhetoric cannot evoke The emphasis in this book is on style not genre and the analysis characterizes the distinctive styles of four American writers showing how the richness and complexity of their prose discloses an important argument about the value of language itself Their prose is complex nuanced layered affecting always aware of itself as style This self consciousness Anderson contends prepares the reader to regard style as argument a tacit but powerful statement about the value of form as form style as style

A Life for a Life Michael Dow Burkhead, 2009-08-20 Providing a new look at the intense public debate surrounding the death penalty in the United States this book explores the various trends in public opinion that influence crime prevention efforts create public policy and reform criminal law It examines eight core issues about the use of execution cruel and unusual punishment discrimination deterrence due process culpability scripture innocence and justice It provides a brief history of capital punishment in the United States from the earliest known execution at the Jamestown Colony in 1608 to executions occurring as recently as 2008 Additional topics include the regionalization of capital punishment sentences the spiritual and scriptural debate over the death penalty the role of DNA evidence in modern execution sentences and the ongoing effects of Furman v Georgia McClesky v Kemp Baze v Rees and other related court rulings     Tourists of History Marita Sturken, 2007-11 Study of how the memorials created in Oklahoma City and at the World Trade Center site raise questions about the relationship between cultural memory and consumerism
