Bone Ivory And Horn Identifying Natural Materials:

Bone, Ivory, and Horn Michael Locke, 2013 In the pre plastic era everything was made from natural materials often by skilled craftsmen The materials that they used are now often rare and easily misidentified Are they made from bone ivory horn tortoiseshell shell skin or scales or some other now forgotten exotic material This technical book will help collectors antique dealers museum conservationists and frequenters of flea markets to know more about the vast array of those artifacts their biology rarity value and how to conserve and restore them Included in this comprehensive guide are hundreds of images of actual collectibles ranging from knives to buttons Visual Heritage: Digital Approaches in Heritage Science Eugene Ch'ng, Henry Chapman, Vincent Gaffney, Andrew S. Wilson, 2022-04-05 How we understand our shared and individual heritage interpret and disseminate that knowledge is increasingly central to contemporary society The emerging context for such development is the field of heritage science Inherently interdisciplinary and involving both the Arts and Humanities engineering conservation and the digital sciences the development of heritage science is a driver for change socially economically and technically This book has gathered contributions from leading researchers from across the world and provides a series of themed contributions demonstrating the theoretical ethical methodological and technical methods which lie at the heart of heritage science Archaeology conservation museology the arts forensic sciences and heritage management are represented through collaborative research with specialists in applied technologies including object and terrestrial laser scanning multi spectral imaging visualisation GIS and 3D printing Together the chapters present important case studies to demonstrate the recent advances and best practise within the discipline highlighting the value of digital transformation across the heritage community that includes objects monuments sites and landscapes spanning two million years of natural and cultural history from all over the world Visual Heritage Digital Approaches in Heritage Science is aimed at a broad academic and practice led readership which extends across many disciplines and will be of considerable value to scholars practitioners and students working within heritage and computer science at all levels The content which applies heritage science across two million years of cultural history will be appreciated by a general audience as well as those wishing simply to explore the vast range of potential technical applications across all the disciplines represented in the book Ivory, Bone, and Related Wood Finds Wilma Olch Stern, Danae Hadjilazaro Thimme, 1976 Parts of crossed leg chairs and richly decorated fragments of bone and ivory excavated at Kenchreai the Eastern port of Corinth include scenes of an emperor and a miniature ivory Corinthian arcade that decorated luxurious furniture produced in late Roman Egypt How to Study Rhinos Bayard H. Brattstrom, Martha A. Brattstrom, Mary E. Shipman, 2016-04-29 Rhinos are interesting fun to watch and endangered of becoming extinct This book is first about how scientists study rhinos and then information is presented on rhino taxonomy distribution ecology fossil history behavior reproduction and conservation including poaching But there is a lot more to rhinos than just the above there are also sections on rhinos in history rhinos in art rhino companies logos and products as well as lists of rhino books toys and conservation organizations

Bone, Antler, Ivory and Horn Arthur MacGregor, 2014-10-30 Artefacts made from skeletal materials since the Roman period were before this book neglected as a serious area of study This is a comprehensive account which reviews over fifty categories of artefact The book starts with a consideration of the formation morphology and mechanical properties of the materials and illuminates characteristics concerning working with them Following chapters discuss the organisation of the industry and trade in such items including the changing status of the industry over time Archaeological evidence is combined with that from historical and ethnological sources with many illustrations providing key visual reference Originally published in 1985

Ivory, Bone, and Related Wood Finds Wilma Stern, 2007-07-30 Hundreds of richly decorated ivory and bone fragments from furniture and parts from at least three crossed leg chairs survived under seawater in an apsidal room at Kenchreai the Eastern port of ancient Corinth These excavated remains include fragments of an incised bone panel with a scene of an emperor and attendants a thiasos bucolic and hunt scenes seated philosophers erotes and a miniature ivory Corinthian order supporting a bone arcade decorated with erotes Decorative moldings and large bone rings suggest that most of these belonged to a luxuriously decorated chest Dating to the fourth century these objects provide an important addition to our knowledge of the artistic production of late Roman Egypt and the working of ivory bone and wood

Archaeological Artefacts as Material Culture Linda Hurcombe, 2014-05-12 This book is an introduction to the study of artefacts setting them in a social context rather than using a purely scientific approach Drawing on a range of different cultures and extensively illustrated Archaeological Artefacts and Material Culture covers everything from recovery strategies and recording procedures to interpretation through typology ethnography and experiment and every type of material including wood fibers bones hides and adhesives stone clay and metals With over seventy illustrations with almost fifty in full colour this book not only provides the tools an archaeologist will need to interpret past societies from their artefacts but also a keen appreciation of the beauty and tactility involved in working with these fascinating objects This is a book no archaeologist should be without but it will also appeal to anybody interested in the interaction between people and objects
